Kansas City Daylily Garden

7728 Holmes Street

Kansas City 10, Missouri

Howdy Fellow Gardeners:

Wish you could see me now, surrounded by leaflets from Florida and the warmer climates, dreaming of a vacation in those places. I suppose I am just one who loves the warmer days of Spring and Summer and sure find it hard to wait until Spring arrives here. Today it is raining and rather warm for this time of the year, and I know the Daylilies nestled in their rows are also eagerly awaiting the first signs of spring.

Our first flowers to bloom will be the crocus, daffodils, tulips, etc., followed by Iris, Peonies, then guess what, "Daylilies". Yes, the Spring flowering plants are precious to us but it is the Daylilies that pull us out of bed earlier than usual to see what new is blooming, especially in our newer varieties and seedling planted here and there.

Perhaps you might be surprised to know how I started growing my large stock of Daylilies. I first purchased a few plants from Russell in Texas because they fascinated me to such an extent that I said to myself, this is what I will grow, collect and specialize in.

Our business has been growing larger each season and keeps us busy throughout the summer conducting it. We don't hire anyone, as the cost would be prohibitive and we have found that hired help is not reliable. You can be sure we take personal pride in trueness of selection and preparation of plants as attested by the many fine letters of praise we receive yearly. We love those letters, we experience the greatest satisfaction in reading them.

We are enclosing a list of Pinks, and Kraus varieties at this time which we know will be of much interest to many of you. You will notice that we will not ship on these until a little later but that has to be, as the demand has been so great on these that we have had to continually divide out and reset, so need a little growing weather to bring these into a size that we like to ship. They could be shipped earlier and in many cases, if you insist, we shall do so if you think you can grow them faster into larger plants than we can. If you have an abundance of rains in the early months, this would be perhaps to your advantage.

Now, the plants we have listed are in the majority much wanted, many of these I have turned down orders on because of our inability to grow them fast enough. In fact, these are the varieties that you read about in fine article on Daylilies and see on slide flim.

Remember, prices are not indications of the beauty or worth of a daylily. Prices are determined by the beauty and quality of a Daylily which causes a demand, and as you know demand soon makes a Daylily scarce, therefore, the price drops very slowly. Just like quality merchandise in a store, it just cost more. But unlike hard store merchandise, these Beauties of Nature have a mind of their own and some are very obstinate as to increase while others do quite well for themselves, providing lots of offsprings.

We have yet to find many varieties that are at the top of the hit parade of the later varieties that increase fast enough to meet demand.

We urge those of you who want some of these, to place your orders now or you might be disappointed. We hate to disappoint our gardening friends.

On the pink list you will see there are some nice premiums for orders of 10.00 or more, these are fine offers considering the quality of the plants we are offering these premiums on. Also note reduction of prices on Kraus varieties on orders of $10.00 or more.

We wish to thank our many friends of years past for their fine letters of praise.

Later this season, say June or July, we shall send out another list of fine varieties of very new and older good Kinds and in many instances much less in price and if you wish a list of these varieties, just let us know by postcard. Otherwise your name will be regretfully dropped from our list.

We grow 700 latest best varieties and will be very happy to quote special prices or any you want quotes on, if you will order 3 or more of that variety.

Hurry your orders friends, and happy gardening.

Cordially,

E. C. Machowski

“Exciting Pinks”

Pink Daylilies are the Cinderellas of the garden. While lemons, red, and others are very fine, it is the pinks that are most eagerly sought after. We haven't yet been able to grow a large stock of pinks due to the demand. They add variety, more beauty and are the colors and shades that lend an air of excitement to any Daylily planting.

These pinks are from real pinks, salmon pinks, buff pinks, through cherry rose, on into lavender pinks. Pinks come in many shades, also soil conditions, sun or shade have an effect on their specific color tones. Wet and dry conditions have an effect on Daylily shades. Fertilizing in spring or before blooming is not advised. Fertilize right after blooming and then use Golden Vigoro sparingly or some other such slow acting fertilizer. Humus incorporated in the soil with a little nitrogenous type fertilizer mixed in is very good also.
